7.1.10 INSTITUTIONAL CODE OF CONDUCT

The institutional CODE OF CONDUCT also known as Institutional Code of Ethics is a set of standard of conduct that has to be mandatorily followed by both teachers as well as students of the institution.

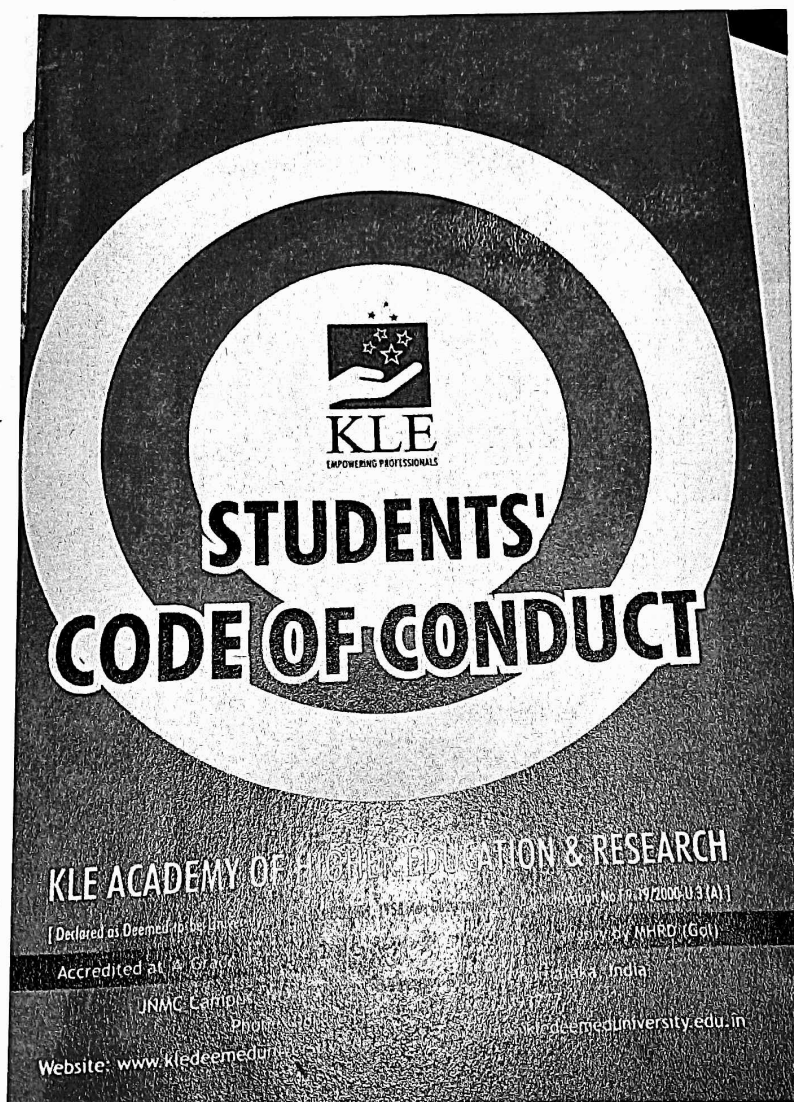

The aforesaid Code of Conduct has been prescribed and authored by senior leadership team from the Parent University as well as institution keeping in mind the well being of all. By establishing the Code of Conduct the individual and a group of people are held responsible for their wellbeing, actions and activities.

It establishes a set of rules describing the expected behavior from the students studying in the institution enlists the types of unacceptable behavior in easy to understand terms and also includes the consequences for unacceptable behavior by the students. It lays out in written manner the principles, ethics and moral value of the institution for both the faculty and students.

With the establishment and following of the set of Code of Conduct for institution, faculty and students the institution aims at enhancing core values and beliefs, it looks forward to build up an environment which can foster trust and ethical behavior. Along with this the aim to establish and abide by the prescribed code of conduct is to ensure safety and protection as well both for students as well as faculty. Thereby building an environment and atmosphere in the institution which nurtures cares and allows individual to grow prosper and achieve the mission.

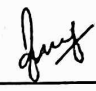

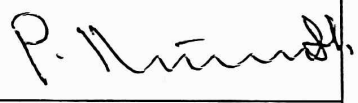

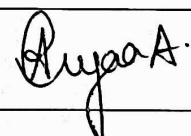

Thus measures and precautions are taken to avoid any violation of the Code of Conduct and thus providing a safe secure student friendly campus to the students for their holistic development and career building.
